

THE FUTURE OF BOILERMAKER APPRENTICESHIPS AND THE INTEGRITY OF OUR INDUSTRY ARE AT RISK

Send a comment right now to the Department of Labor:
Tell them to keep IRAPs out of the construction industry.

Our world-class, registered Boilermaker apprenticeships programs train our members to become highly-skilled, high income Boilermakers through a debt-free, technologically-advanced education. Our earn-as-you-learn programs pay family-sustaining wages and provide health-care coverage and retirement benefits. They are proven programs focused on the special skills, quality and safety we require of Boilermakers.

However, our program and our future is at risk. A new proposal by the U.S. Department of Labor could drive down training and labor standards in construction registered apprenticeship programs and set off a race to the bottom throughout our industry.

We have one month to stop it.

WE NEED YOU to add a comment during the Dept. of Labor's proposal comment period.

You can easily add your comment as a Boilermaker by visiting:

www.saveboilermakerapprenticeships.org

We also need you to share this with your friends and family! They can add their comments of support for your apprenticeship program by visiting:

www.saveconstructionapprenticeships.org

